

Technical Outlook: Nifty

Markets continued to extend its losing streak for the fourth straight week as the index fell almost 17 percent from an all-time high of 12430 to low of 10294.45 on 9th March 2020.

Four unfilled continuation gaps from 12000 to 10300 levels, this structure surely indicates bears are dominating bulls.

On the 11th March, the benchmark index recovered from its day's lowest point but couldn't sustain above 10500 level and closed well below the said level.

Daily RSI (14) has drift below 20 level which is an oversold level for the indicator, so a sharp pullback at the current junction cannot be ruled out.

Indian bourses have hung up near 200-week exponential moving average with indicators near oversold level revives hope for some bounce back in coming sessions.

Current chart formation suggests nifty may find major support at around 10250 level which is well supported with a Fibonacci ratio. However, on the higher side, the index will continue to face hurdles around the 10750 level. In the case of sharp short-covering, nifty may go to 11000 level.
