

Technical Outlook: Nifty

Nifty50 has almost recovered 78.60 percent from its 21st Decembers low. Two back-to-back strong positive closings after a brutal fall indicate we are in a strong bull market and every dip should be utilized as a buying opportunity.

From the last couple of trading sessions, prices are hovering marginally above their 21-day exponential moving average. But after a strong rally of near to one percent on 23rd Dec, prices have settled above the said average and will be the next support zone for the index.

The weekly candle gives a replica of the hanging man candlestick pattern but one needs to wait for the next week's candle for the confirmation.

As per the daily chart pattern Bank Nifty is looking weak comparing to Benchmark Index Nifty. Banking Index on a daily scale has witnessed rising channel pattern breakdown and currently trading between the band of 21 & 50-day exponential moving averages.

Daily RSI (14) of Bank Nifty has slipped below 60 levels while RSI for Nifty holds above 60 levels.

Going forward, the trend in Bank Nifty to remain Bearish to sideways, on the higher end pullback may extend towards 30300. On the lower end support is placed at 29000. Meanwhile Nifty may face a strong resistance near 13750 and on the lower end support is placed at 13300 levels.
