

Technical Outlook: Nifty

In the last five out of ten trading sessions Nifty50 opened with a gap on the either side of the direction indicates a volatility grip on the Indian indices. In this final week of the April month expiry every alternate day market changes its direction without any specific bias.

On the daily interval, prices are trading within the rising channel pattern and on 26th April prices faced a strong resistance near the upper band of the rising channel pattern on the immediate next day 27th April, prices slip closed to one percent confirming the resistance of the pattern.

The prices closed below its (21, 50 & 100) - day exponential moving averages on the daily time frame and the oscillator RSI (14) has drifted below 50 levels and also facing a strong resistance of a trend line near 70 levels.

The immediate support for the Nifty is placed near its 50 WEMA which is placed at 16660 levels and the upper band of the index is capped at 17350 levels if the index is closed above the said levels then the gate for the prices is open till 17550 levels.
