

DERIVATIVE REPORT

Derivative Report

Will the market take out 24000 level.

- Over the past three trading days, long liquidation have been observed in the Nifty.
- Meanwhile, FIIs have been increasing their short positions, particularly during market pullbacks.
- The weekly PCR, currently at 0.48, suggests significant activity on the call side.
- On the options front, most activity is centered around the 24,500 strike, and fresh long builds (LB) are noted at the 24,000 put, indicating that market participants are anticipating a flat to negative market.
- The market is expected to trade below current levels, with any rise towards 24,300-24,350 presenting a potential selling opportunity, targeting a move towards the 23,800-23,500 range.

Derivative Report

Nifty FII's LS Ratio

FII's have increased their short positions in the Nifty Index, consistently selling at each market high. It has been observed that their short positions increase during market pullbacks. Based on current data, it is anticipated that FII's will add fresh short positions around the 24,400 level if the market rises to that point.

PCR

The Nifty monthly PCR stands at 1.34, down from 1.38, indicating that put writers are unwinding their positions. The weekly PCR is at 0.49, approaching an oversold zone, with call writers being particularly aggressive this week. A potential short covering could be anticipated if the PCR drops to 0.40.

Nifty & India Vix

In yesterday's trading session, the VIX fell by approximately 8%, signaling a decrease in volatility. It is expected that the VIX will trade around the 21 level in the coming days.

Nifty Daily OI

The highest call activity is observed at the 24,200 strike, followed by 24,300, which is likely to act as resistance for today's trading session. On the put side, the greatest activity is seen at the 24,000 put, where a fresh long build (LB) has formed, and at the 23,800 put, where a short build (SB) was observed. This suggests that participants expect the market to trade below the 24,000 level and find support around the 23,800 level.

Derivative Report

LS Ratio BNF

The long-short ratio for Bank Nifty Futures (BNF) among FIIs has risen from 0.52 to 0.61. This shift indicates that FIIs are now holding long positions at 38% and short positions at 62%.

PCR

The monthly PCR for Bank Nifty is at 0.91, reflecting a balanced struggle between put and call writers. In contrast, the weekly PCR stands at 0.52, indicating that call writers are more aggressive than put writers this week.

BNF VIX

The Bank Nifty VIX is currently at 21.16. At this level of volatility, a one standard deviation move suggests a potential price change of approximately $\pm 1.33\%$ for the Bank Nifty.

BNF Daily Option

The highest call activity is observed at the 50,500 strike, which is likely to act as a strong resistance for the market, followed by the 50,000 strike. On the put side, the 49,500 strike has the highest open interest, indicating strong support. Market participants are expecting the market to expire below 50,500 but not below 49,500.
